California

- Only 12 percent of Latinos have a bachelor’s degree or higher compared to 43 percent of Whites and 24 percent of Blacks.
- Over a third (35%) of Latinos have less than a high school education compared to less than 10 percent of Whites and Blacks.
- On average, Latino men with a bachelor’s degree or higher earn less than White men overall.
- Thirty-seven percent of Latino workers without a bachelor’s degree have a good job.
- Latinos are proportionately represented at California’s two-year colleges and have narrowed the White-Latino enrollment gap at four-year colleges.

FIGURE F-6. Educational attainment by race/ethnicity in California

Source: Georgetown University Center on Education and the Workforce analysis of pooled ACS data (2011-15).
FIGURE F-7. Median annual earnings by gender, race/ethnicity, and educational attainment

Source: Georgetown University Center on Education and the Workforce analysis of pooled ACS data (2011-15).
Note: Workers include those who worked full-time full-year.

FIGURE F-8. Share of Latino workers without a bachelor’s degree with a good job

Source: Georgetown University Center on Education and the Workforce analysis of pooled ACS data (2011-15).

FIGURE F-9. Latino shares of college freshmen and college-age population